

Were you absent?

start here

Was your absence planned?
In other words, did you know in advance that you would be missing class?

Did you talk to Ms. Pratt ahead of time about what you would miss and turn in work early?

Awesome!
You should know what you need to do and when.

Uh-oh. You were supposed to do that. It was in the syllabus, remember? Late penalties likely apply. Would you like to find out what you missed?

Well that's a poor choice. Consequences of that choice are zeros and possibly even lunch detentions.

Take the note off the calendar and keep it safe! On the back, it should have an explanation of what you need to do as well as when you need to turn it in. Do the thing (or things).

I did the thing!

Splendid! Attach your sticky note to your work, show it to Ms. Pratt at the beginning of class for a date stamp, and then turn it in to the "to grade" box for your class period. You're done!

First, check the What You Missed calendar (in the classroom). Is there a Post-It with your name on it?

That means nothing was collected or assigned that day. Check your unit calendar, the Google calendar, or Planbook to catch up on reading and notes.

What does it say on the back?

Take the note off the calendar. On the back, it should have your name and what handouts you need. Get those from the weekly goodies tray (your copies should have your name on them). This handout might also ask you to do something.
